A Dedicated Man

Colton High is proud to have a man like Eugene R.A. LaPlante, a 21 year veteran of Colton High, who has served our school well during his long tenure. The well known Yellowjacket was designed by LaPlante. "Gene" as many of his friends know him, designs all the programs covers, posters, and artistic designs for the school.

LaPlante is the advisor of the Crimson and Gold and the Art Club. LaPlante received his degree from the Boston Conservatory of Music and traveled through the United States singing and performing in operas and musicals.

One of LaPlante's other joys is painting. The dedicatee has done painting all over the world including the Vatican Gardens for the Pope.

In honor of the 1981 Crimson and Gold, the staff is pleased to announce Eugene R.A. LaPlante, as this years dedicatee.

Lunchtime Activities And Dress Up Days Enjoyable

Dress up day were limited compared to last year. Celebrity dress up day and the traditional halloween, color, and Girls League were among the dress up days.

Lunchtime activities included powder puff football, slave auction, and tug-o-war. Though the lunchtime activities were few, they were enjoyable.

Perhaps if school spirit would increase through out the school more lunchtime activities and dress up days would be possible.

1981 Homecoming was an event that will always be remembered in the minds of CHS students. The Victorious Jackets beat the Redlands terriors 49-21. Connie Soso was named the Homecoming queen and Eugene R.A. LaPlante the Grand Marshal. The theme for this year homecoming was "Dreaming of . . ." Art club took sweepstakes the second year in a row for their Float. "Dreaming of the Emerald City." Freshmen classes took first place in classes for their "Dreaming of the Future." Key club for the second year took First place in clubs for their "Dreaming Of New Frontiers."

Homecoming was changed since all floats were constructed in one location. The U.S. Armory was used to build and judge the floats used in homecoming. Even with the many problems that occured homecoming was an enjoyable event.

A Load Of Information

Libraries across the nation bring knowledge and information to students in all grade levels.

One of those such libraries is the Colton Media Center. With the help of librarian Charles Grazer and Library Aide Clydia McGee, students can gather information and study materials for their classes.

The Media Center also has available, video equipment for student use. Many a student can see video taped activities at lunch or upon request.

THE WIZARD OF OZ

Colton High School student body put on "The Wizard of Oz" as the 1982 musical. The cast will consist of students through out the district of all ages. Pam Soto, Dorothy, Jerry Hernandez, Scare Crow, Bobby Shively, Cowerdly Lion, and Tony Newhall, Tin Man, will play the leads in this lavish musical production. Cast members have worked many long and hard hours memorizing lines and preparing sets. The production opened on March 26, 1982 and will play for the next two week-ends. Art students are a talented and enthusiastic group of workers. Most people think of art as portraits, landscapes, etc. But, art means more than paintings on canvas. Art is anything creative such as sculpture, leathercraft, woodcraft etc. These young artists are as proficient as professionals, though they are amateurs. Teachers spend extra hours advising and teaching these students many techniques that will be beneficial to aspiring art majors.

Honors Choral, under the direction of Rick Salano, performs for various organizations throughout the city. The group practices year round to prepare for such CHS productions as Supper Theatre, musicals, and Variety Show. Salano teaches his students many musical techniques in the class. Generally, the members learn a great deal about music and the appreciation of it. Honors Choral provides an introduction to music appreciation to those who wish to seek it.

David Farnum watches as the other members sing.

Lisa Linberg and Cathy Hudgins are enthusiastic about the class.

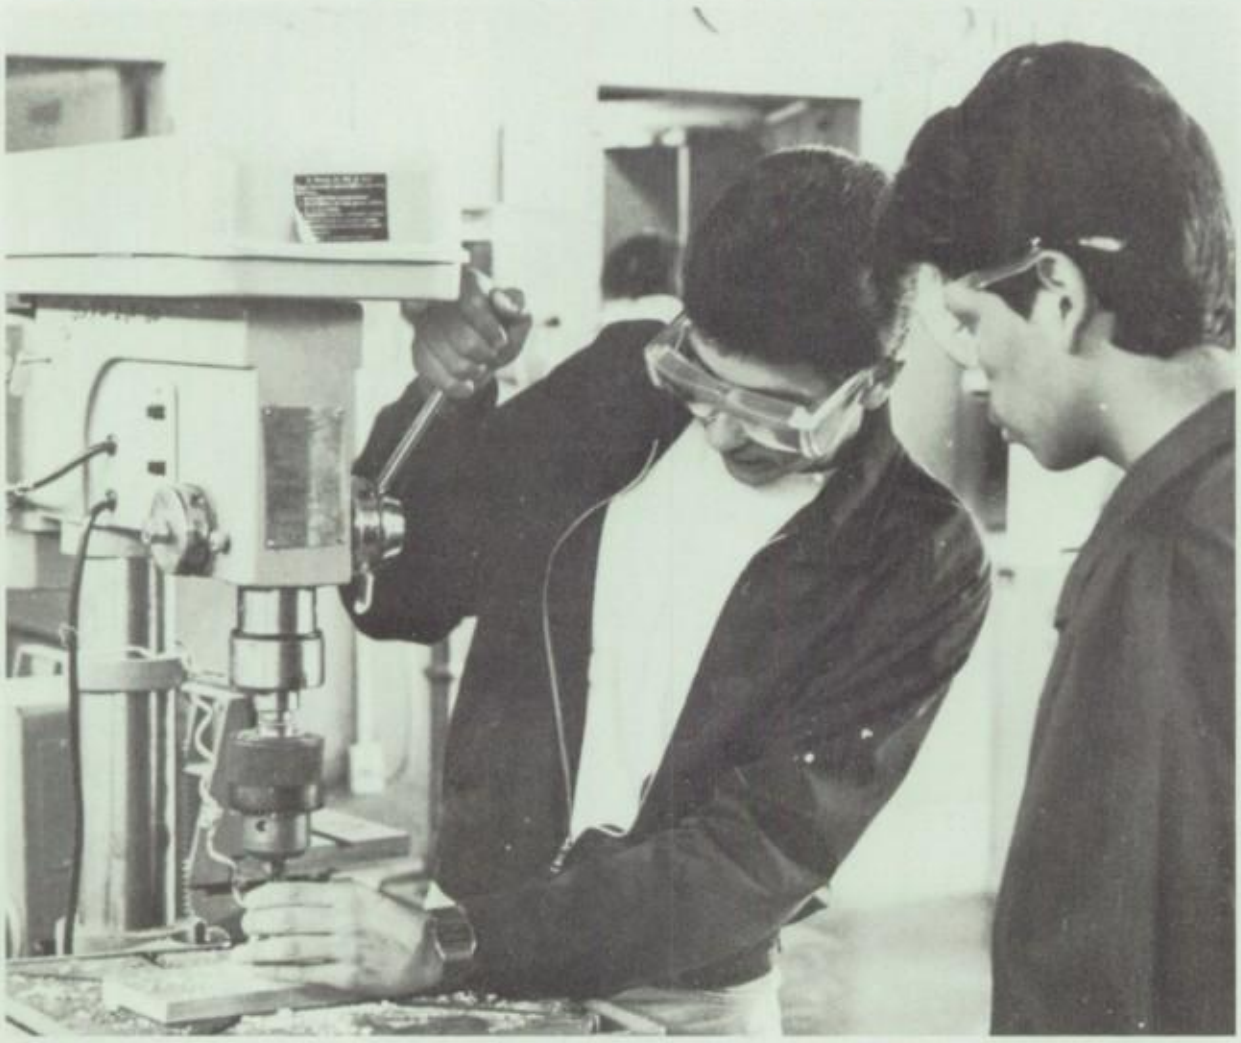
Hands On Experience



Shops provides young men and women with hand on experience in the field of vocational arts. Students are able to use various power tools to create and design their own type of metal and wood art. Also, many students repair their own cars and design and build equipment to fit on their automobiles. VICA, a club designed for the industrial art minded individual, helps students to create and sell their own goods. Most of the students work many long and hard hours on their projects and take pride in what they do.

Juan Macias and Moses Hernandez design a plaque during wood shop.

CBL Champs And Spirit Makers

With a 9-1 record, the varsity football team was ready to enter the CIF 4-A play-off picture.

After winning the Citrus Belt League title undefeated, Colton was ready to take on the other leagues.

In the first game Colton went against St. Francis. Winning that game easily, they took on Los Altos. After defeating them badly, Colton went up against Marina.

The win against Marina allowed Colton to go to Anahiem Stadium to play St. Paul for the 4-A Championship.

Two of the smallest schools in the 4-A division played for the honors.

St. Paul won the battle in front of over 29,000 spectators.

If anything, Colton 1981-82 football proved that a small team from a not so much publized league, can be good enough to make to the championship game.

Tom Quiroz and Albert Felix await the final seconds of the St. Paul game to tick off.

"We Really Worked Hard"

After gaining a position to play in the CIF playoffs, the girls' Varsity tennis team proved that this season was most successful. Trailing only Redlands and San Gorgonio in league play, the Yellowjackets, led by Coach Bill Ashley, overcame both schools by achieving three positions in the Citrus Belt championship.

The first doubles team of Diana Hernandez and Colleen Negrete captured the second position in CBL, second team Renee Carriere and Kelly Rankin gained the third position, and singles' power Esmeralda Mendoza positioned at third in the singles' catagory.

Led by local pro, Frances Ochoa, the Junior Varsity also showed their talents as they held the second place position in league play.

"We really worked hard together as a team," stated Varsity doubles player Melissa Longley, '82. "Working together gave us the strength to do well in our matches."

Boys' Basketball - Not All Bad

Even though the Boys' Varsity Basketball had a losing record, it wasn't a losing season. Moral was still high on the team and in the stands of the games.

During most of the games, the players were close in score by half-time, but seemed to lose the touch and eventually lost the game.

Only the games against the top-ranked San Gorgonio Spartans gave Colton much trouble.

J. V. Basketball received a new coach. Art Watson took over the team and ready a few of the players for next year.

Soccer Still Kicking

This the soccer team started the season with high hopes. They played to the best of their abilities throughout the year. They were dissappointed at their losses but inspired by what they learned with the experience. Each game demanded our best mental and physical effort. They practiced everyday. They competed with the best teams in the county. Perhaps next year the team will reach a higher goal.

Baseball Has Winning Record

Under the coaching of Walter O'Neil the Boys's Varsity baseball went through another season with a winning record. The team was expected to reach the CIF playoffs another time around.

Carrying a squad of fourteen players, coach O'Neil was helped by Rob Williams, a former Colton star.

The team practiced hard and used its pre-season schedule to its best advantage. After a tough pre-season, the team took on their CBL foes. Teams like Fontana and Eisenhower proved stiff competition.

Badminton Has Remarkable Season

Badminton has had a remarkable season. Dedication and endurance are what make the badminton team such an excellent league competitor. Coach Guidi trains and conditions her athletes until they perform their best. Various clinics are held through the year to teach the members new techniques about the sport.

Even though badminton isn't a much publicized sport, the students seem to enjoy it. After a second place finish in CBL last year, the team will try to take the title.

"First" 2nd Place Trophy

Despite the fact that the Girl's Basketball team hasn't been getting much recognition, this season has been very successful. In fact, for the first Varsity it was a year of "firsts". For the first time in the history of Girl's Basketball at Colton High the varsity captured a second place trophy from the Colton Christmas Basketball tournament and the first win in four seasons resulted. Also, a win over Redlands pocketed the very first Citrus Belt League triumph.

Under the strict guidance of Coach Jim Hayes, the girls added new techniques and polished basic plays which contributed to the respected victories. Endless hours of practice were put into drills and speed and conditioning which improved percentages in rebounds, foul shots, and fast breaks.

"Now that we've got our act pretty much together, there's nothing to do but get better," sums up senior guard Lisa Cornejo. "We've come a long way."

. . . And The Band Played On.

As the Marching season come to a close the Colton High School Marching Band has finished their competition, and should be proud of their accomplishments for the 1982 season. There have been better years, The band had extremely tough competition this year. The band performes at Pep Assembelies, football halftimes, basketball games, parades, and numerous competitions in which the band competed in their category.

Under the direction of Larry Roberson and drum major Sara Andon, senior. Unlike last year, on the field, Drum Major, Sara Andon took part in the band in a way not all drum majors do. Sara was given an instrument carried on by one of the other band members. She then played along with the band doing a solo in one of the numbers. After the routine was over, she proceeded to direct the band off the field as the drum major.

ASB Reached New Heights

The Colton High School Student Body Council reached new heights this year. Improvements were made in many areas. The sales of A.S.B. cards increased considerably nearing the one-thousand card mark, which made substantial differences in A.S.B. funds. Also room 55, which is used by the council, was painted by the council members. The room was highlighted with a mural of our school mascot the "Yogi" yellow-jacket which was painted by the Art Club. The A.S.B. council also held the "Toys for Tots" drive in Dec. which was very successful.

Pepper Bough: School Informative

The Pepper Bough is a student newspaper of high quality. Its excellent news stories features, and layouts have contributed to The Pepper Bough's many awards and recognition by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association, National Scholastic Press Association, and Superior ratings from the Western Association of Scholastic Schools.

These dedicated members of the PB staff have spent many hours at The Colton Courier pasting, printing, and laying out the pages of the paper to present it to its excellent caliber.

With the advisements of Mrs. Patricia Ishida our paper holds the dedication that she and the whole staff contribute. Co-editors Kim Baumann and Kenny Chavez have led the staff to produce a newspaper of which all the students at CHS can be proud.

Co-editor Kim Baumann rechecks her double spread layout sheet.

Girls League Involved!

A much involved club on campus is Girls' League. The club is made up of girls interested in helping the school and community in such projects as campus beautification and dances.

Advisor, Mrs. Strobel helps the girls set up meetings and generally participates in all of the clubs' activities.

Overall participation and hard work make this club what is and hopefully will be in the future.

Members joining the club have to dress as little girls at the specified date.

President Anna Bustamante stands with advisor Mrs. Strobel.

Vice-president Peggy Romero and secretary Yvonne Guerrero are ready for a nap.

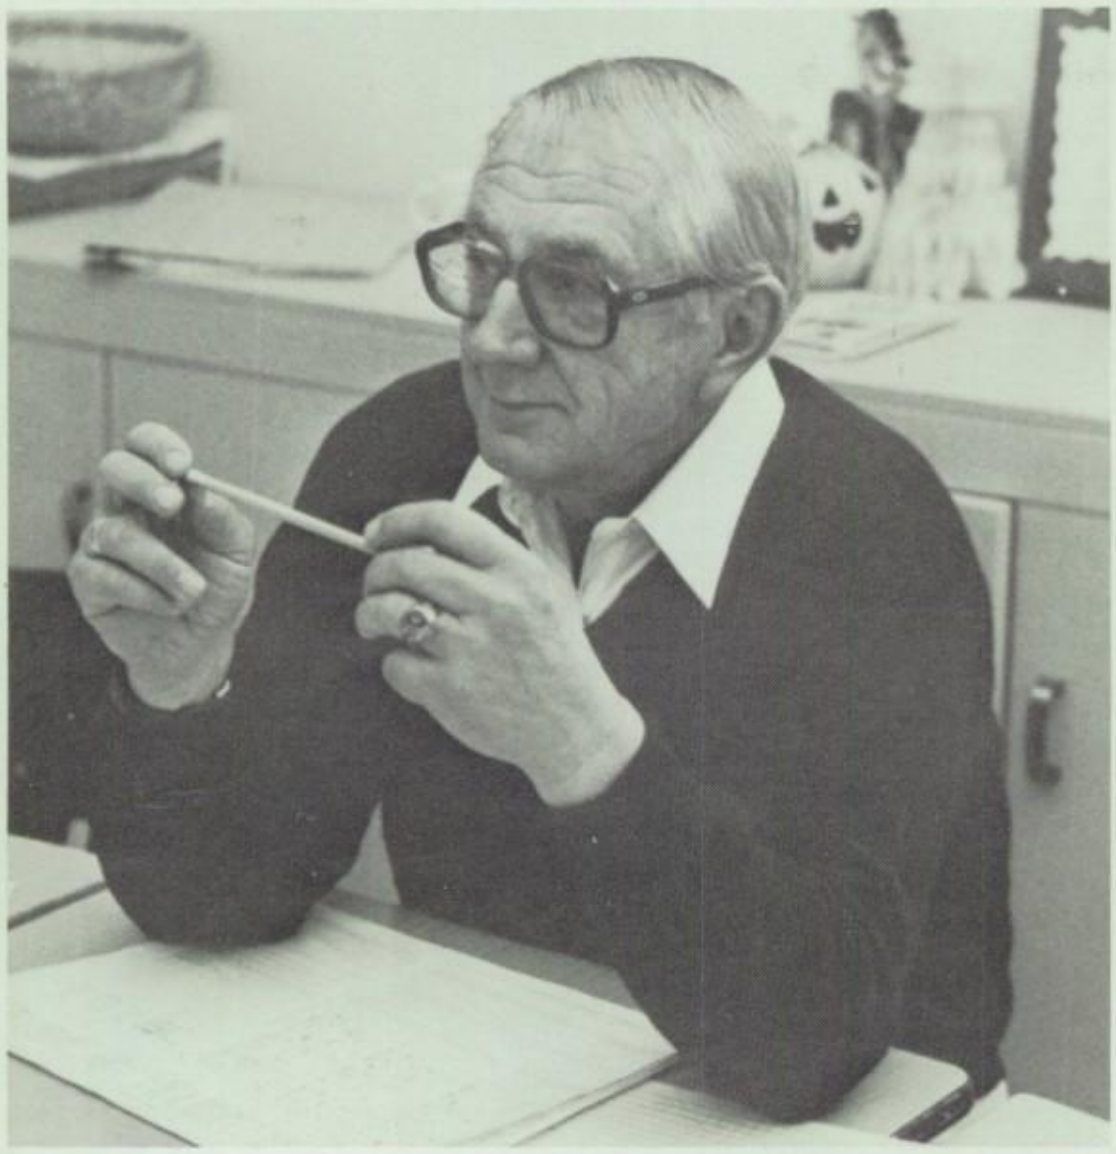
Sheldahl And Fuqua Leave C.H.S.



O. Sheldahl

After twenty-seven years of counseling and teaching at Colton High, sophomore counselor Orrin Sheldahl will retire this year.

With nineteen years of teaching history and government and eight years of counseling behind him, Sheldahl feels that his years at Colton High were very rewarding.

"Satisfaction, the feeling of accomplishing something, and working with young people have been some of the rewards," said Sheldahl.

While attending U.S.C., Sheldahl attained a B.A., and M.A. in political science. Sheldahl tried sales for a while, but then turned his attentions to teaching for which many are grateful. He then switched to counseling where he fulfilled his goal by working and guiding students through their education.

"I'd like to retire while still in good health," said Sheldahl. "I want to keep busy, but not be tied down from 8 to 5."

J. Fuqua

During the year, Mrs. Jenice Fuqua left her post as Official Records and Data Processing Clerk and moved to "the Last Frontier." In other words Anchorage, Alaska was her destination.

Before she left, Mrs. Fuqua expressed her thoughts and experiences with working at Colton High for over five years. "I really enjoyed working with the kids," said Fuqua. "I hope I find a similar job in Alaska."

Fuqua foresaw that the "big move" to Alaska will be "a very new and challenging experience."

Valedictorian

Thick, black, horn-rimmed glasses hanging off his nose, dishelved, uncombed hair, a cotton plaid shirt buttoned to the top, a ton of books in one hand, and laboratory specimen in the other, typifies an ordinary class valedictorian. A real brain who runs from class to class to be sure not to get a tardy slip.

Since all rules are meant to be broken, Kenny Chavez shatters the clear-cut image portrayed by a valedictorian. Always a sharp contemporary dresser and clean-cut, the 1982 valedicitorian discloses "I may carry around a lot of books; yet I'm not a bookworm, I just don't use my locker. I don't even like science or mathematics, but I can still get "A's" because I force myself to do well.

I don't consider myself the smartest person in this school, I just have better grades."

Since grammar school, his mother was always telling him he was going to be valedictorian. His parents stressed grades over sports and other activities. "It's more important now because it opens more doors after you finish high school. When I was a little kid I'd hear stories about going to college; You'd get a free ride, you didn't need money, and you'd be successful."

It isn't as easy as that, as he's found. Especially in such prominent universities as Harvard, UC Davis, Stanford, Notre Dame, and UCR, all of which he's applied to. His preference is Stanford University in Northern California. He plans to major in political science or public service if he on to a UC system.

Philosophizing on life, the honor student suggests to experience life, to live for noe, while also preparing for the future.

Seniorities, that dreaded social disease, sometimes has taken its toll on Chavez. He admitted while pondering, "Sometimes I lay in bed thinking about the four more years of schooling and harder work."

However, he faithfully grinded, and earned his 4.0 grade point average.(GPA). Not only did he accumulate a perfect GPA, but actively participated in various extra-curricular activities which include cross country, track, Citizenship Committee, ASB Council, California Scholarship Federation, and Pepper Bough Co-Editor.

Additionally, Chavez amassed a number of awards and honors: September 1982 student of the month, Liberal Arts plaque winner in the Bank of America Contest, National Society of Distinguished High School Students, Honor roll, and student winner in many write-off, journalism, speech and essay competitions.

Designating journalism as his best subject in high school; The Pepper Bough Co-Editor modestly revealed, "I like to be recognized for my effort in things such as competitions, but not draw attention to myself."

If there is ever time to spare in a valedictorian's life, it is time spent reading. Relating a portion of his inner self, the compassionate young man divulged, "I like to read books about people who overcome misfortunes, people who rise from being poor or handicapped. I like the hero not to be big and macho, but to be human , to have faults—someone I can relate to."

With a possible twist, Chavez himself has hopes of becoming his own hero, in a sense. "I think I could do better for myself." He has set some high goals to accomplish in the future; go to a prestigious four-year college, go to a prestigious law school, and become rich.

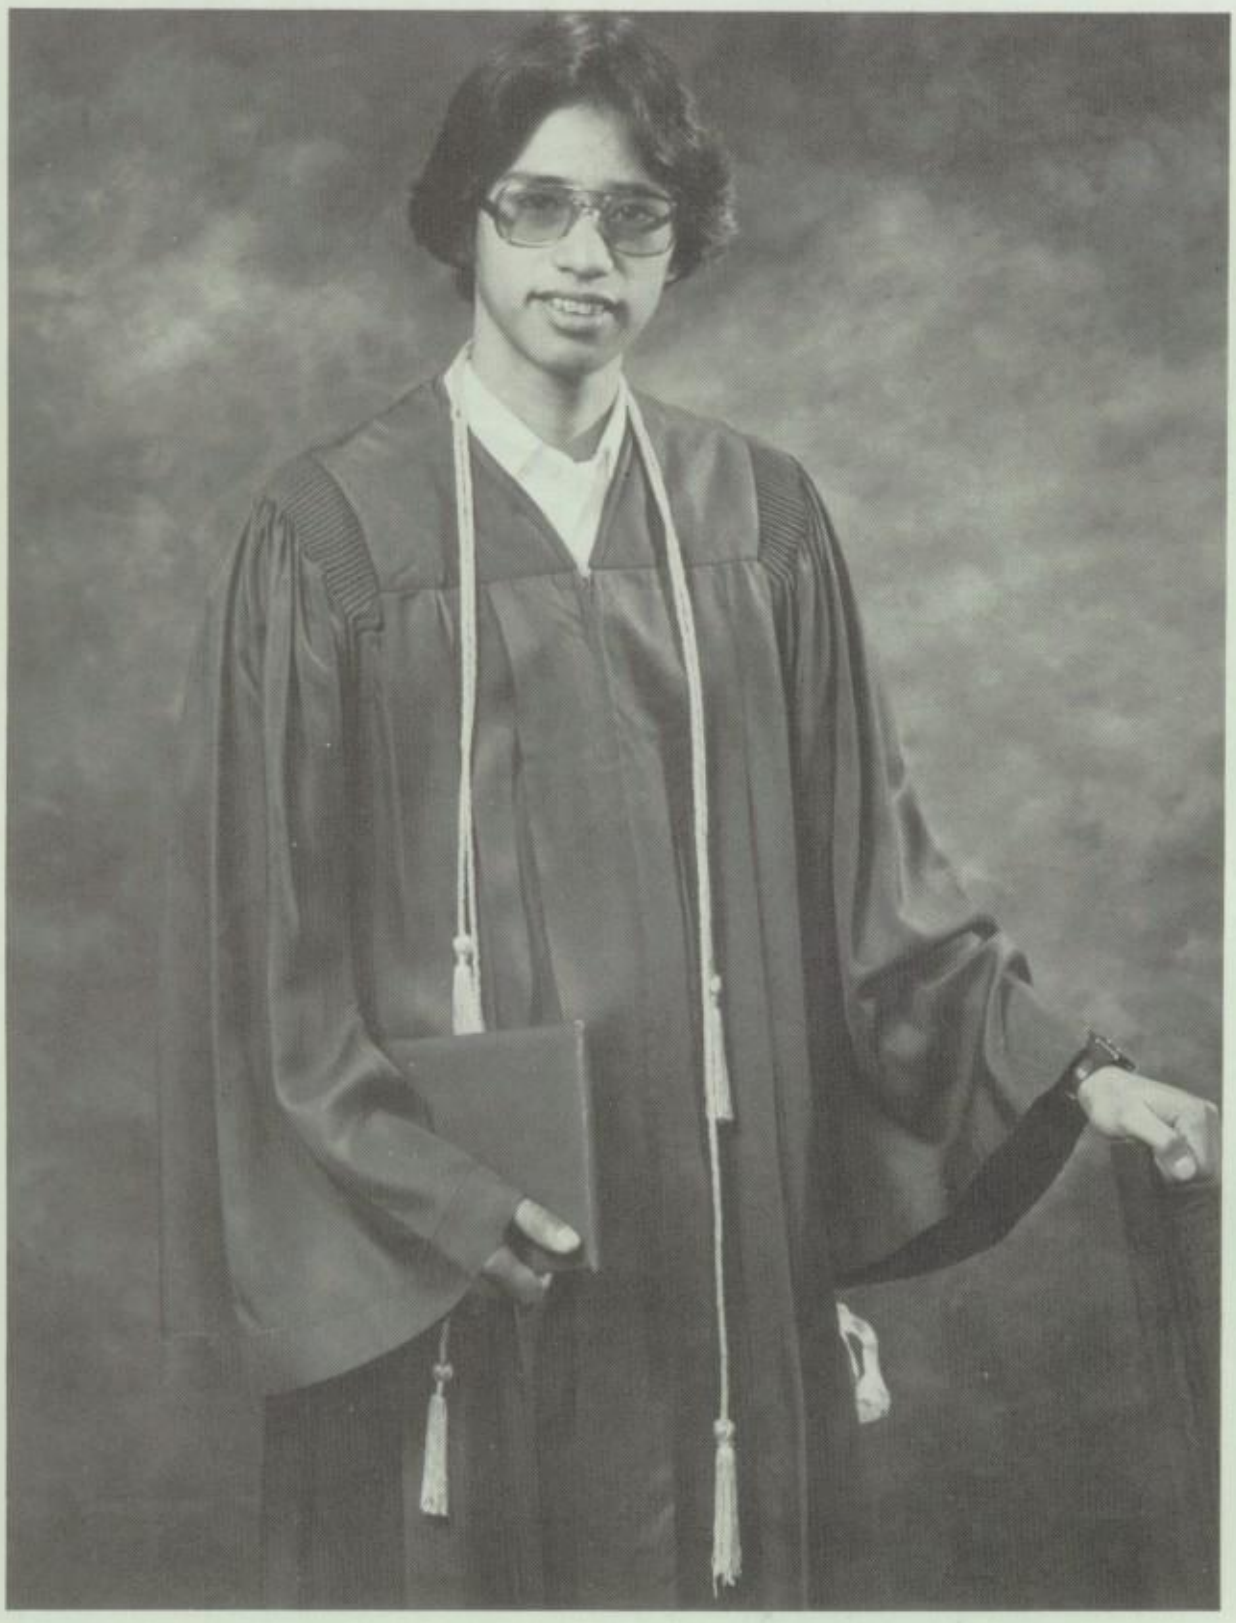
Why so determined to be rich?

"I want to be successful; the (money and success) go hand in hand. Unfortunately in this society, it measures a man's success in dollars and cents."

Competing with ones peers ofter can "egg on" one to trying harder himself; but, Chavez said that he does not compete with his classmates, only himself. With every new course comes the challenge to defeat it. He wants to be the victor over the class and the teacher. Proudly he acknowledged,"I've never lost a battle yet, since Junior High."

In thirty years time, people change a great deal; yet the conscientious scholar sees himself in the year 2012, not as an old man, but one with wisdom, one who can contribute to the community in many different ways.

Times change and so do people, but the good things and people continue forward.



Salutatorian

"If you want something good on life you must work on it." This is quite a fitting life philosophy for a high school salutatorian.

Obtaining salutatorian status can easily be described as a good accomplishment in life and can be sure that it takes hard work.

Sara Andon, 1982 salutatorian, claims that this is her philosophy in life - to work hard for something that is good in life, that you want.

Early in years the brown-haired, brown-eyed honor student trained herself to learn. "One must develop the ability to discipline himself over a period of time. It doesn't come over night."

Possessing the discipline not to quit, she pushed herself to accumulate her 3.93 grade point average. The only class she received a "B" in was Algebra II because she can "excel in mathematics that are based on geometric rather than algebraic concepts."

"Along with personal satisfaction," she disclosed, "being salutatorian has the advantage of getting accepted to better colleges with probable scholarships."

Unsure, as of yet, of her exact college destination, she has definite stakes set on attending a university. "I worked this hard to get the grades I have, I should be able to take that step forward."

Although she is undecided on where to continue her education, she has several fields of interest which include music, art, astronomy, and psychology.

Even before getting into high school, Andon was very active in extra curricular events such as the American Legion Essay Contest which she placed third in the nation.

During her four-year term here, the extremely active student participated in an abundance of school activities: Marching and Concert Band, Woodwind and flute quintets, Renaissance Trio, Chamber Singers treasurer, Supper Theatre instramental accompianist, cast and orchestra member in all four major musicals, ASB secretary, sophomore class representative, swim team letter person, Girls' League, California Scholarship Federation vice president and secretary, and Girls' State Citizen, only to name a few.

With all these activities to take up so much time, a person would be a fool to gamble on saying she could not possible have time for hobbies. Yet more talent flows from within her. She oil paints, pencil scetches, experiments with astronomy, writes music, and plays five instruments including the flute, piano, trumpet, mello phone, and guitar which she self-taught herself to play.

An observable confidant (yet not conceited) and poised young lady, Andon speaks highly of her whole family who encourage her to progress to high peaks. But she points out, "I like to model my personality after my sister because she is the most kind and unselfish person I have ever met."

Even though there is quite an age difference between herself and her brother, 24, and sister, 28, the unity in her family is quite apparent. "I'm pretty lucky. Though the age gap is a hindering factor in the closeness of my family, that doesn't mean that we love each other any less."

After four years of exhausting the Yellow Jacket premises, There is not much she claims she would like to change except for the "I don't care" attitude that she has encountered in many of the organizations she has been involved in.

Tiring the ol' cliche, "It's a nice place to visit, but I wouldn't want to live there." Andon departs Colton High School with good memories.

In retrospect, she hails her school, "Colton High has given me the opportunity to utilize my talents in a positive manner. It has an active fine arts department and a good athletic program opposed to some schools that are unfortunately dwindling in some of those areas."

Taking a generous portion of her thoughts pertaining to school, she continues, "The teachers I have encountered have been extremely caring and helpful as in regards to my scholastic and personal well being."

Seniors Achieve Honors

Awards ranging from the Bank of America plaques to the Lynda Denny Piccolo Award have emphasized the many talents and given students the recognition they deserve. These awards are not based only on scholastic merit, but speaking ability, quickness, and overall personality. These awards also give students the incentive to reach towards their goals and compete with others in numerous contests. In most cases, such as the Bank of America Awards, these competitions require weeks of preparation before decisions are made. This includes intense research and practice if one is determined to be recognized for their particular talents. These students are greatly commended for their contributions and distinguished representation of the class of 1982.

Bank of America Plaque winners Mike Sachs, Kenny Chavez, Jaime Guerrero, and Lydia Gutierrez.

Bank of America Certificate winners Steve Kerrick, Greg Renaud, Christina Ornelas, Mark Beltran, Grace Luna, Veronica Zendejas, Kurt Voss, Brenda Keebaugh, and Gerry Hernandez

Sara Andon the Lynda Denny Silver Piccolo winner.

Girls' State Rep., Sara Andon, and Boys' State Rep., Mike Sachs.

Kevin,

Hi, it's hard for me to write much. I keep wanting to just give you a hug and say it's okay. Well, I really am glad this year we became closer and I hope to see you again next year. Have fun over the summer and make sure you keep in touch. If you noticed, I am writing in the colors of the rainbow, so I hope this brightens many of the rainy days in your life. Keep that beautiful Smile on your face and keep on running so we can talk to each other at track practice instead of working out. Well, Kevin you have alot going for you keep it up. Love always

Kevin,

This year sure went by fast! I'm really glad that we have become closer to each other. We have had many good times together and I'm sure that we'll have many more. You're a really neat person to be around, you are always around to talk to if I'm down, you try & succeed in lifting my spirits. I really do enjoy talking to you and if you ever want to talk or need to, don't hesitate to call me ever. Now that I think about it you are really more of a brother to me and also a good friend. I feel for you as I'm sure I would if I had a brother. I've realized that if my parents would have had a son I would want him to be like you!! I hope that you have fun in Texas. Please do keep in touch with me, I know how you like to write so feel free to call me anytime. Take special care of your wonderful, talented mother. Watch it in Texas - I know that you'll have to fight off all the girls, they'll all be looking for a good-lookin california guy, so take care and please don't forget us.

Love Ya Lots!!

Love,
Tammi

-> P.S...

Kevin, I don't know why but I feel that when I'm done writing this you'll be far away and I'll only talk to you once in a while and in a way it hurts. You really are a special guy and you do fill a special place in my heart. You've been alot of help to me over the years by just being there, and being able to talk to you. You're a neat guy and you have alot going for you. Keep up the cheerful attitude and keep up the high spirits.
